Not illustrated. 1839 Excerpt: .overhanging cliff offers resistance to the waves, ever foaming at its base; the bald summits of the mountains bear the characters engraved by time: the rapid river, having escaped from fall to fall, passes beneath the busy wheel of the saw-mill, where, having performed its last act of usefulness, it rolls onward towards the sea. Even the diving seal seems pleased with all around him, and, rolling his head upon its oily hinges, breathes with delight the elastic air. About a mile eastward of the Jasper Island, there is a cliff of conglomerate, fifty feet high; it stands unconnected with any other rocks of the class, and its summit is well cleared, and cultivated. The feldspathic rock, of a deep brick-red colour, then occupies the shore to the entrance of the Magaguadavic. A small uninhabited island, at the entrance of this river, composed of hornblende trap, is beautifully basaltic. The pillars are of an equal size throughout its whole extent, and are formed under five, six, seven, and nine sides, and lean towards the south, at an angle of 15. On the east end of this island a large block of trap tufa still remains, the representative of a much larger rock, which has been carried away by the tidal currents sweeping along the shore. At its western extremity, a group of isolated pillars shews the line whence the columns have retreated from. the sea. The reddish trap tufa is also seen at Jour s Cove,...
