Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from List of Staple Medical and Surgical Supplies Selected to Meet War Conditions, Vol. 4 To the end that the needs of the medical services of the Army and Navy, Red Cross, and Civilian Hospitals, in the matter of instruments, apparatus, and all supplies, may be successfully met under the abnormal conditions existing in time of war, the Secretary of War, as chairman of the Council of National Defense, appointed a Committee on Standardization to select a minimum number of articles essential to the conduct of the Nations medical activities. The lists of apparatus and supplies appearing in these pages were selected by subcommittees, appointed by the Committee on Standardization, composed of medical officers of the Army, Navy, Public Health Service, and Red Cross, and civilian workers of the highest type, working in conjunction with manufacturers of such apparatus and supplies. In this selection of staple and essential articles the committee is assured of a maximum and economical production of such articles through the conservation of manufacturing resources and the simplification of manufacturing problems. It has been agreed by the manufacturers that the production of such articles as are listed shall be given precedence over other articles for similar purposes. The committee has attempted to provide a list of those articles essential to the best X-ray work at base and general hospitals; and also a portable outfit for use at temporary hospitals. Other lists published by the Committee on Standardization will include all classes of articles, apparatus, and equipment necessary to the conduct of the medical activities of the Nation. If there are omissions of essential articles from this list, or if errors have crept in,...
