Not illustrated. 1884 Excerpt: . or any signs of putrefaction, and quite cold; but if lightened and exposed long to the air, will again begin to ferment and heat. Thus, if the weight is taken off the edge where it has been cut away from, it will begin to heat and smell like sweating hay, and the cattle seem to like it well when warm; but it will shortly begin to dry, and mould. We are feeding it to seven cows which calve early in the spring, and are therefore naturally fast losing their milk; yet they improved considerably for three weeks after coming from hay. The milk has a slightly altered flavour from that of hay; but the butter is very good in flavour and colour, much better than hay butter. The cattle are extremely fond of it, and this is a good test of its quality. They all ate it without hesitation from the first. Horses will generally eat it at once, and sheep after a short time. I think it at any rate equal to, if not better than, the best hay, though I should certainly hesitate to say that it is as good as green grass. With our ordinary horses, hands, and machinery, we put in silos about five acres of heavy grass, and did some haymaking as well in a day. The rest of our hay, about 100 acres, took us five weeks, and a lot of it got spoiled into the bargain, though last...
